Release 4.1.1 information

The IBM Directory Server Version 4.1.1 release applies to the Windows NT and Windows 2000 operating systems only. This is a performance release only and there is no new functionality. The documentation for the IBM Directory Server Version 4.1 applies to this release as well. There is no new or additional documentation for this release.

Performance items include:

- Optimized mutual exclusion locking, with tailored enhancements for servers with one or multiple processors.
- Improved memory management, especially for servers with multiple processors.

Installation

The installation procedure of the 4.1.1 release remains the same as 4.1. However, if you are installing 4.1.1 over 4.1, your configuration information is backed up and restored automatically for you.

Note: All future e-fixes are going to be built on the 4.1.1 release.

All the installation, Server Administration, Directory Management Tool, help panels, and documentation and so forth for 4.1.1, reflect the version number 4.1 only. You can verify the exact version number by checking the registry value, using the regedit command, for

- HKEY_LOCAL_MACHINE\SOFTWARE\IBM\LDAP\Server\ServerMinorVersion
- HKEY_LOCAL_MACHINE\SOFTWARE\IBM\LDAP\Client\ClientMinorVersion

These values change from 0.0 for 4.1 to 1.0 after the 4.1.1 installation.
