At a glance

IBM Watson™ for Oncology, software as a service, is a cognitive computing decision support system that includes the ability to:

- Analyze patient data against thousands of historical cases and insights gleaned from working thousands of hours with Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center physicians and other analysts.
- Provide treatment options to help oncology clinicians make informed decisions. These treatment options are supported by literature curated by Memorial Sloan Kettering, and over 300 medical journals and 200 textbooks, resulting in almost 15 million pages of text.
- Evolve with the fast-changing field of oncology through periodic training provided by Memorial Sloan Kettering.
- Support first-line medical oncology treatment for breast, lung, colon, and rectal cancers.
- Support second-line medical oncology treatment for lung (non-small cell lung carcinoma), colon, and rectal cancers.
- Identify potentially relevant clinical trials through a prepopulated query to www.clinicaltrials.gov

Overview

IBM Watson for Oncology is software as a service (SaaS) that delivers an advanced ability to analyze the meaning and context of structured and unstructured data in clinical notes and reports, easily assimilating key patient information written in plain English. By combining attributes from the patient’s file with clinical expertise from Memorial Sloan Kettering, external research, and data, Watson™ for Oncology identifies and ranks potential treatment plans and options.
Supporting evidence for each option is also provided as Watson for Oncology draws from an impressive corpus of information, including Memorial Sloan Kettering’s curated literature and rationale, as well as almost 15 million pages of text. For consideration, Watson for Oncology also supplies supporting evidence in the form of administration information, as well as warnings and toxicities for each drug.

Key prerequisites

- A direct Internet connection

Planned availability date

June 23, 2015

Description

Similar to reaching out to a learned colleague, IBM Watson for Oncology, software as a service, provides oncology clinicians with evidence-based treatment options based on expert training by Memorial Sloan Kettering physicians.

Watson for Oncology offers the following capabilities:

- The ability to analyze the meaning and context of structured and unstructured data in clinical notes and reports
- Personalized treatment options for oncology clinicians to consider, based on patient attributes
- Ranked treatment options based on thousands of Memorial Sloan Kettering training cases and additional insights from Memorial Sloan Kettering experts to help oncology clinicians as they consider treatment options for their patient
- Machine learning, informed by Memorial Sloan Kettering expertise
- Periodic updates to content and Memorial Sloan Kettering training
- Rationale for treatment options that are supported by curated literature from Memorial Sloan Kettering, publications from Watson's ever-expanding medical corpus data repository, and drug information

Watson for Oncology provides these key functions:

- Provides oncology clinicians assistance to make more informed treatment decisions
- Helps summarize patient attributes from longitudinal patient record
- Provides links to supporting evidence for each treatment option from Memorial Sloan Kettering's curated literature
- Identifies select missing or conflicting information, which can help oncology clinicians identify more appropriate treatment options
- Creates prepopulated query to www.clinicaltrials.gov to identify potentially relevant clinical trials
- Generates shareable individual treatment plans and patient education materials to engage the patient

Statement of good security practices

IT system security involves protecting systems and information through prevention, detection, and response to improper access from within and outside your enterprise. Improper access can result in information being altered, destroyed, or misappropriated or can result in misuse of your systems to attack others. Without a comprehensive approach to security, no IT system or product should be considered completely secure and no single product or security measure can be completely effective in preventing improper access. IBM systems and products are designed to be part of a comprehensive security approach, which will necessarily involve additional operational procedures, and may require other systems, products, or services to be most effective. IBM does not warrant that systems and products are immune from the malicious or illegal conduct of any party.
